

WORST FOR YEARS

Conditions at Soldiers' Home Described by a Witness.

Nels Larson, a Stationary Engineer, Tells His Story.

HOW THE TROUBLE STARTED

It Began With Publication of Col. Harrison's Letter.

Culminated When Members of Home Were Expelled.

Dodge City, Kan., Nov. 20.—Conditions in the state soldier's home today are worse than at any time in years, according to Nels Larson, stationary engineer at the home. Under the promise of protection from officers of the G. A. R., Larson told the investigators that Col. J. N. Harrison and H. R. Wells of the board of managers had created a state of anarchy and that the home was a place of lawlessness. Larson has been an employee at the soldiers' home under three administrations. He thought conditions under Commandant Breese were good. When Commandant Hattian was in the home, Larson said that the standard of discipline slipped and many inmates complained as to the Democratic management.

"It seems to me, though, that conditions at this time are worse than I have known them," said Larson. "I will have to say that there is more dissatisfaction than at any time since I came to the home."

Before testifying, Larson was assured by C. A. Meek, state department commander, in charge of the investigation, that he would have absolute protection for any statement he might make. With this assurance, Larson told a frank, candid story of conditions. Sometimes as he made his statements, he looked directly at S. S. Martin, commander of the home, who was in the room.

How It Started.

"What started the trouble here?" Larson was asked.

"It seemed to start when Col. Harrison wrote a letter to the newspapers and gave out a statement that the inmates of the home were a disgrace to the state," Larson said.

According to Larson's story, inmates of the home resented the oppressive rules of the board and felt that they did not receive a fair hearing. He said that the board of managers had ordered the board to deny inmates the right to circulate petitions, it seems they have no right to defend themselves and that they are entitled to a hearing and are not getting it under the present conditions.

"Do you believe conditions in the home at this time tend to create dissatisfaction and discord?" Larson was asked.

"Yes, I do," was his candid reply. Larson said that he lived a short distance from the flag pole near which all of the public meetings were held during the summer months. Usually he was sitting on his porch during the evening hours and he heard some of the remarks of board members.

"I am no hand for public speaking," Larson told the investigators. "But I just naturally heard some of the things that were said. I really attended but one meeting, but from my porch I heard some of the things that were said."

"What did you hear that seemed to arouse the members of the home?" Larson was asked.

Heard Some Speeches.

"I heard Mr. Wells say 'If there is any one who is not legally a member of this home, I want him to pack up and get out. Another time I heard him say, 'If what I have said has made any one mad, I am glad of it.'"

"What do you know about rationing?" Do you always get enough?"

"Not always," said Larson, "especially sugar and coffee. There are three members of my family now. Sometimes I get supplies for two, sometimes two and a half, sometimes three. I went to the board about it and they said we should have all we wanted to eat. But they were cut down again."

"Have employees been discharged without a hearing?"

"I have been told so."

"Who?"

"Wilkins, the sexton, was discharged. He said that he asked the board for reasons for his discharge, but they wouldn't give them."

The witness said that a number of persons on the pay roll had been discharged by the board of managers and indicated that the civil service rules had not been applied to the home. Failure of the board to give a reason or explanation for their action had increased the sentiment against the managing officers.

GOOD ROADS GOSPEL

shape by George C. Hench, sales manager of the Road Supply and Metal company, who drove a Russell road planer over the road yesterday. Mr. Hench dragged the 38-mile stretch of road between Topeka and Osage in a little less than fourteen hours.

The city made this Saturday one of the biggest good roads days ever held in the county. Farmers came from all directions. An announcement in the Osage City Free Press states: "We all want good roads and the way to get them is to encourage and encourage some more and then go to the right source for the needed help and we will get them."

A big luncheon was held at the Hotel Everett for the Topeka party. Those who could not eat there on account of the crowd were taken to restaurants and still others were taken to private homes where they were served with the best Osage county could offer. For hospitality Osage City is a worthy rival for the neighboring towns. The welcome, said the Topeka men who were fortunate enough to make the trip.

An hour in Burlington.

Burlington, Kan., Nov. 20.—The Topeka good roads bureau is scheduled to arrive here at 4 o'clock this afternoon and remain until 5. Prominent men of the state capital, Governor Capper, State Treasurer Akers and others, are slated to give talks, and several Burlington business men, including the mayor, will speak. Music by the Burlington band will be a feature.

Leaving Governor Capper behind to join them at Osage City, the Topeka good roads boosters left this morning at 8:45 o'clock for their visit to Osage City and Burlington. The trip is to help the big "Good Roads Day" celebration of Osage county, which is being held in Osage City.

The 17 cars which left the Commercial club will be joined by 22 more, according to word left by a new member of the club. Arriving in Osage City shortly before 11 o'clock, a luncheon will be served the Topeka men and women by the Osage City Commercial club. Talks by Gov. Capper and others will be the principal subject of conversation after the lunch and the boosters will leave Osage City at 2:30 o'clock. They will then expect to arrive at 3, leaving for Topeka an hour later.

PEEVED BY A SONG

In quest of an interview with the author of the song.

"This is a young man wanting to see you, Mike," called out the man whom Larson told me an interesting story was one other than Bill Fitzpatrick. Mike came to the gate, chin out, hands planted upon his hips.

He Sings the Song.

"I know you for what you are—a reporter," said Mike. "I want to see the letter the president wrote to me asking me not to publish the song I wrote about the romance of the pale-face chief and the Indian maid. Well, I wrote it and I have it."

"If I sing it to you," Mike said. "If you have music in your soul or the heart of a dancer, your heart you'll not deride my song."

His voice rose to the fox trot time in the "Pretty Little Indian Maid," as he sang the ditty, the first verse of "A pale face chief of a mighty tribe, On the trail of an Indian squaw. In his light canoe, that was built for a lover's dart hit the white man's heart. For he was the chief of the pale face tribe, And she was an Indian maid."

May Not Be Published.

Mr. Fitzpatrick had entered into negotiations with his publishers, but they refused to publish the song without the consent of the president. In response to a letter sent to Washington this reply was received:

Washington, October 22, 1915.

"My Dear Sir: Replying to your letter of October 19, the president asks me to say to you that he would be very much obliged if the song to which you refer were not published. He would be very much distressed if it were. I am sure you will fully understand and appreciate his position."

"Sincerely yours,"

"J. P. TIMULTRY,"

"Secretary to the President."

Notice of Stockholders Annual Meeting.

Topeka, Nov. 19, 1915.

The annual meeting of the Independence Mines & Power company will be held in the Davis Mercantile building, 101 North Kansas avenue, Topeka, at 7:30 p. m. on Monday, December 6, 1915, for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year, and any other business which may come before the meeting. All stockholders are earnestly requested to be present or send proxy to vote their stock at this meeting.

W. H. DAVIS, President.

A. G. POTTER, Secretary.

The reference to the Serbian advancement at Monastir is rather cryptic. Unofficial advices yesterday were that the town had been occupied by the Bulgarians. The advance had been made before the town finally was abandoned or may mean that Monastir still is in the possession of the Serbians and the Bulgarians have been repulsed.

Names of Persons Who Need Assistance Pouring In.

Applicants for Free Thanksgiving Dinners Bring Problem.

HOW TO GET NECESSARY FOOD

Those Who Are Willing to Help Urged to Get Busy.

Volunteers Should Notify the Confidential Exchange.

In the last week, an average of fifty names of persons who will need assistance in procuring the kind of a dinner on Thanksgiving day befitting the occasion have been received daily. As these names and addresses continue to pour in, the good towns which local charity workers are traveling is nearing. But to attain it, the persons whose names have been submitted to the confidential exchange must be given the foodstuffs that stir up thanksgiving feelings. An assignment of baskets for every family in the exchange records, is a problem that now confronts the secretary.

Hundreds of baskets will be offered by the organizations regularly engaged in work of this type and a number of church clubs have volunteered to provide dinners for a limited number of families. But the need for numerous homes that left to the guidance of the family head would house no cheer producing vultures next Thursday.

Widows who depend on a washbuck for the slender and frequently uncertain income on which is reared a small army of youngsters, are not often able to vary from the regular menu on November 25. Hard working dads whose financial remuneration for their labors fall below that necessary to properly provide for a family and fathers whose wages and their way into the strong boxes of the exchange are little better than a paper moon, are in a similar predicament. To offer their tots and the tots' mothers a dinner that would for the time at least blot out a little of the bitterness those families face, will say that any of those children or the mothers are undeserving of at least one decent meal a year?

Should Be Early Response.

And it is that army that is being enrolled at the Exchange office. But the need is many and a call is being issued on the public. Any person desiring to furnish foodstuffs or baskets can leave his name at the State Journal office or phone the Confidential Exchange—565. Considerable confusion can be avoided if persons volunteering baskets will make known their intentions before November 25.

More than half the persons whose names are coming into the Exchange office will probably never again call on any charitable organization for assistance. A complete new file is therefore being prepared for the donors who will be the guests next Thursday of Topeka's Gloom Chasers.

No one back of the scheme to provide food for all has a right to say something worth eating on Thanksgiving day doubts the generosity of Topeka's. Local charity workers declare that Gloom is already fading away and that there isn't the slightest chance for him to see daylight this Turkey day.

The Plan.

Gloom's "number" was obtained a short time ago when the army on his trail met at the office of the Exchange to agree that he had no place in Thanksgiving festivities. And M. Gloom's number was acquired without any unnecessary formality. It was annexed in the following manner. A scheme was devised that would provide every person in Topeka—no matter how low his or her income—something to eat on Thanksgiving day. The details of the scheme are just these: Every active organization doing charity work and the numerous clubs and societies that assist on special occasions are making a complete canvass of the city. The name of every person who they believe should have a basket is turned into the Confidential Exchange office as fast as obtained. In this way practically every person who will probably have difficulty in securing foodstuffs for Thanksgiving is being enrolled on the records at the Exchange.

Then to further minimize the chance of skipping some one who needs the help of food, announcement was made that names could be turned into the office of the State Journal. In this manner a number of persons whose names will not be given to the confidential exchange will be included in the Thanksgiving assortment of foodstuffs were found.

Fire in Optical Plant.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Fire early today destroyed the glass making plant of the Bausch and Lomb optical company, requiring several months' work when the European war cut off the company's supply from Europe. The loss is estimated at $25,000. Reports that the fire was of incendiary origin were denied by company officials. The fact that much of the output of the plant was for the belligerent nations gave rise to the report.

AUSTRIAN CITY BURNS

Isonzo line. Everywhere the Austrians are holding their own. The battle line has been pushed back to the Adriatic. The Serbians, little hope is felt in England that the announcement is premature. Accepting it as true the impression is growing that the entente allies arrived too late to give any service to the Serbians. The only thing certain in regard to the plight of Serbia is that its military situation is going from bad to worse.

In the north the main Serbian armies are giving way slowly before the Bulgarian and Austro-German forces, which probably would move more rapidly if weather conditions were better.

Serbs in Big Advance.

London, Nov. 20.—An Athens dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company filed Friday, says Serbian troops at Monastir succeeded yesterday in advancing to a distance of seven kilometers (about 4-2-3 miles). The telegram adds that the intention toward Monastir of the Bulgarians, who have occupied Prilp, are unknown.

Denys Cochlin, minister without portfolio in the French cabinet, has left for Salonika after an interview with King Constantine.

The reference to the Serbian advancement at Monastir is rather cryptic. Unofficial advices yesterday were that the town had been occupied by the Bulgarians. The advance had been made before the town finally was abandoned or may mean that Monastir still is in the possession of the Serbians and the Bulgarians have been repulsed.

HE NEVER DID MUCH

Ed Davis Only Shot a Mexican and Sold Liquor.

Because he never did anything but shoot a Mexican and sell liquor, contrary to the dignity of the state of Kansas, Ed Davis, colored, wants a parole. He files application for the conditional release this morning.

Davis has just completed his time for getting into trouble in the Mexican incident and is beginning on a liquor sentence. He claims that he has a wife and two small children who are dependent upon him for support. The county attorney's office says that Davis's wife and children are famous for the number of times that they have been cited in applications for parole.

It was in the house of his wife, Ethel Davis, that Archie McCallum, a North Topeka huckster, claims he was tapped on the head, put to sleep, frisked for $155 and later woke up in a weed patch several blocks distant.

LOOK FOR BUSKY

Seattle Police Seek Signer of Hillstrom Affidavit.

Believed Ruse by I. W. W. to Save Condemned Man.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 20.—The Seattle police are looking for William Busky, who affixed his cross to an affidavit to the effect that he was with Joseph Hillstrom from two to ten o'clock on the afternoon of January 10, 1914, when the Morrison murder took place in Salt Lake City. The general belief at police headquarters is that the individual known as Busky, who appears to be familiar with Salt Lake City and its suburbs, in an effort to stay the execution and at the same time protect Busky by having him clear the way with a cross to protect him from a perjury charge. A newspaper reporter was permitted to see Busky, but with this exception, Busky was out of reach during the day.

Whitehead, who is an I. W. W. secretary, is said to be an old resident here. Following is the text of Busky's affidavit as telegraphed to President Wilson and Governor Spry by Secretary Whitehead, early Friday:

"Seattle, Wash., Nov. 18, 1915.

"I, William Busky, do hereby solemnly swear that on the tenth day of January, 1914, I was in the company of one Joseph Hillstrom, continuously from the hours of 2 p. m. until 10 p. m., at Murray, Utah, and that I also received rustling cards from a foreman named Hines at the Murray smelter.

Joseph Hillstrom left me at 10 p. m. on the night of January 10, he had received no bullet wounds."

DOCTOR D RIGHT

Chicago Physician Is Exonerated in Baby Case.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Six physicians, comprising a coroner's jury, have held that Dr. H. J. Haiselden, who permitted an infant, Allan John Bollinger, to die when an operation might have saved him to a life of unhappiness as a defective, was morally and ethically justified in not performing the operation which his conscience did not sanction.

An implied disapproval of a course wherein a physician might determine if it was or was not desirable for a patient to live, was contained in the concluding paragraph of the verdict: "We believe that the physician's highest duty is to relieve suffering, and to save or prolong life."

The Verdict in Full.

The verdict in full follows: "First we find from the evidence presented and from personal investigation that Allan J. Bollinger died from the effects of imperforate anus. "Second, the essential malformations of the body of Allan J. Bollinger were: "Imperforate anus, "Infusion of the two kidneys into one, located on the left side and with a single ureter. "Absence of the right external ear and of the external auditory canal. "A defective development of the skin over the shoulders, especially the right, causing an apparent shortening of the neck. "Absence of all or part of the coccyx, and. "Third, the acquired pathological conditions were: "Small extracardiac hemorrhages in the spinal canal, "A discharge from the nose and the coroner's physician reports an area of necrosis in the pia mater in the left sylvian fissure. "Fourth, we believe that a prompt operation would have prolonged, and perhaps saved the life of the child. "Fifth, we find no evidence from the physical defects that the child would have become mentally or morally defective. "Sixth, several of the physical defects might have been improved by plastic operations. "Fully Within Rights. "Seventh, we believe that morally and ethically a surgeon is fully within his rights in refusing to perform an operation which his conscience would not sanction. We find no reason to believe that the parents of Allan J. Bollinger were deprived of the privilege of consultation. "Eighth, we recommend strongly that in all doubtful cases of this character a consultation of two or more surgeons of known reputation for skill, ethical standing and broad experience should be held to decide upon the advisability or inadvisability of operative measures. "Ninth, we believe that the physician's highest duty is to relieve suffering and to save or prolong life."
